Fake ISI helmets: Cops educate riders

- Deadline to get ISI helmet extended till Jan. 31
- Police continue raids on shops selling poor-quality helmets

Motorists crowd 'Head and Gears' helmet shop on Chamaraja Double Road in city to buy standard helmets this morning.

Mysuru, Jan. 9 (RK&BCT)- Giving a breather to motorists to purchase ISI-mark helmets by Jan. 31, the City Police have begun a crackdown on vendors who are selling substandard helmets. Deciding to plug the sale of dangerous and fibre-made helmets from the source, the Police have intensified the drive to raid shops, roadside push-carts and make-shift places that sell non-standard helmets within the city limits and also outskirts.

The Police have advised the public to ensure that the helmets have the ISI mark as prescribed by the Bureau of Indian Standards (BIS). "As we have banned the use of half-helmets and inferior helmets, vendors are passing off non-standard helmets as ISI-marked ones. One can easily identify if the ISI seal is original or duplicate as some vendors are using screen-printing technology to print the ISI seal," said a Police Officer who was seen demonstrating an ISI-marked helmet to public in front of a helmet shop on Chamaraja Double Road this morning.

The Central government has made it mandatory for all helmets to bear the ISI mark provided by the BIS. But most motorists are not aware of the rule and buy cheap helmets from the roadside.

Speaking to Star of Mysore this morning, Mahaveer Jain, Proprietor of Head and Gears helmet shop on Chamaraja Double Road, said that ISI standards for helmets are approved after certain tests like impact absorption, resistance to penetration, rigidity and dynamic test of retention system apart from audibility and visibility. As per rules, the visors used in the helmets also need ISI standards.

In India, Vega, Steelbird and Studds manufacture ISI-marked helmets and people can buy from these companies without any fear or apprehensions, he added. "An ISI standard helmet has a strong shell, protective and comfortable padding, retention system with chain strap and standard visor. Non-ISI helmets have only low-quality shells and simple padding with a layer," Mahaveer Jain said.

Rahul Gandhi to address Maharani's students in city

Rahul Gandhi

Mysuru, Jan. 9 (RK&BCT)- After addressing a 2,000-strong gathering of students at Mount Carmel College in 2015 in Bengaluru, Congress President Rahul Gandhi seems to adopt the same strategy to win over student voters in the 2018 Assembly elections in Karnataka. He is scheduled to address students of Maharani's College in city this month end. The exact date of the interaction will be announced soon.

Speaking to Star of Mysore this morning, MLA Vasu said that originally, Rahul's meeting was fixed with the students at Vidya Vikas Institute of Engineering and Technology. "As Maharani's College has more students and that too from poor and lower-income families, we suggested Rahul's Office to hold an interaction there," Vasu added.

A preliminary discussion on hosting Rahul Gandhi was discussed at the Governing Council meeting of Maharani's College this morning. This is for the second time that Rahul is holding an interaction with students in Mysuru.

It may be recalled that Rahul Gandhi, the then AICC General Secretary, had an interaction with the students of St. Philomena's College during his visit to city on Aug. 13, 2010.

National Anthem not mandatory in cinemas: SC

New Delhi, Jan. 9- The Supreme Court this morning modified an order that made it mandatory to play the National Anthem in cinemas, saying the playing of the Anthem must be left to the discretion of the cinema owners.

However, patrons have to mandatorily show respect in case the cinema does play the Anthem, the SC added. A person who stands up shows proper respect, it further said. A bench headed by Chief Justice Dipak Misra said a 12-member inter-Ministerial Committee, set up by the Centre, would take a final call on the playing of National Anthem in the cinemas.

On Nov. 30, 2016, a Supreme Court Bench led by Justice Dipak Misra, before he became the Chief Justice of India, had directed that "all cinema halls in India shall play the National Anthem before the feature film starts and all present in the hall are obliged to stand up to show respect to the National Anthem."

Thought of talent

The most fascinating feature of talent is that it is latent (a re-arranged spelling for the often untapped asset of individuals), thirsting to blossom under favourable conditions in society. Early discovery of one's talent to make a mark in life gives one a head start over others. Old age can only be the time to recollect missed opportunities. One of America's Presidents, Theodore Roosevelt, has rightly observed that to make a success of life, one has got to start young. Needless to say that members of the family, particularly the parents, have the first opportunity and key role in unearthing the growing child's talent, be it speaking clearly by learning at a fast pace, singing to delight the listeners, drawing, culinary interest, attiring with refined taste, gregarious behaviour, good habits in and out of bed, courteous conduct, desire to read and so on. The teacher at nursery and primary school level gets the next chance with the rider that the task of discovering talent in the kids gets more challenging given the diverse backgrounds of the target group. Talent turns to activity once the parents or teachers or those who keep company take care to nurture and cherish the gift with an open mind.

While all children are not born with their limbs and faculties free of defects, institutional guidance and help are nowadays available in the country to tap the talents of the specially-abled growing children, without belittling parental support. Even visually impaired and speech-denied children are known to have extraordinary abilities, such as music and other muses, excelling their normal counterparts.

Urban spaces and villages are differently placed in the matter of discovering talent in kids and building upon the finding. Urbanites, barring exceptions, are preoccupied with their dawn-to-dusk daily chores leaving inadequate time and energy for bestowing attention on their wards. In case of children born and growing in the villages, the issues of awareness about nurturing talent and facilities such as in cities are poorly addressed as of now. A great deal of ground remains to be covered in the country to reduce the chances of missing children with potential to rise to great heights in different fields of human activity. Scholars talk of 64 different vidyas in this context. That number has undoubtedly increased to provide more opportunities to talented youth to blossom. Salesmanship, oratory, humorous writings, fault location in electronic devices, sporting events, designing attires and so on are example that flash across one's mind.

The point raised by an executive of a corporate last week before a Parliamentary Standing Committee that "Youth in India lack needed talent" needs to be taken with a pinch of salt. Agreeing with that verdict mirrors a defeatist outlook. May be, the land's youth are placed in "A square peg in round hole" situation.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

With the North India fog severely disrupting airline's schedule, one of the biggest irritants for flyers has been to wait endlessly inside the aircraft waiting for it to fly. Planes pushed back from the gate, only to sit on the runway for what seemed eternity. So why doesn't the airline allow passengers to de-plane during such delay? Airlines lose sequence in take-off line if passengers are de-boarded, leading to further delay. CISF rules force airlines to make passenger go through security check again if they are disembarked. Capacity constraints at airports means there is no space to hold the passengers who have disembarked. — Arindam Majumder in Business Standard.

Crowd-funding to buy a mummified head

London: A London museum has started a crowd-funding campaign to purchase a mummy - and those who help them out will get their hands on some rather unusual thank you gifts.

The Viktor Wynd Museum of Curiosities, at the Last Tuesday Society in Hackney, is raising money so it can buy a 1000-year-old mummified head of a young boy from the Chimú in Peru. The museum says it needs to raise £6,666 to purchase the head and buy a climate-controlled head for it to be kept in. "The museum welcomes almost 1,000 visitors a month who come from all over the world to see our collection but this is not just about us - it's also about Hackney. Hackney doesn't have a mummy — Camden has 1,000s of mummies in the British & Petrie museums & the Welcome Collection. Hackney needs a mummy now (not another yummy mummy a Dead Mummy)."

Thai men's new crazy treatment!

Bangkok: Thailand's fascination with skin whitening treatments is well known, but while most people opt to have the most visible parts of their bodies whitened, an increasing number of men are undergoing special laser procedures on the dark parts of their groin region.

News of the "penis whitening" craze in Thailand reached the Western world a couple of days ago, after photos of men undergoing the unusual procedure at the Lelux Aesthetic Hospital outside of Bangkok went viral on social media. They showed a number of men lying down on a medical chair while hospital staff operated the "Pikachu laser" on their groin region.

The Lelux Hospital, famous for its body whitening procedures, launched the penis whitening service in July of last year, and is currently struggling to keep up with demand for it from Thai men. According to Tech Times, the Bankok hospital now has around 100 clients a month, or up to 4 clients a day, willing to pay $650 for the five-session treatment.

Really...?

- The CIA tried to manipulate the media in the US. The documents about the operation were declassified in 2007.

VOICE OF THE READER

When Prof. J.R. Lakshmana Rao was offered a job at IISc...

Sir,

It is with deep regret I read about the sad news of the passing away of Prof. J.R. Lakshmana Rao (Star of Mysore dated Dec. 29). I had the privilege of being one of his students in Chemistry Honours class at Central College from 1948 to 1951. Amulya K.N. Reddy, who earned a name for himself in the scientific field, was my batchmate. Prof. Lakshmana Rao was highly popular among the student community. For sheer fluency in delivery, there was no one to match him.

Prof. B. Sanjeeva Rao, Head of the Department of Chemistry, took a liking for him and was instrumental in his appointment as Lecturer. His first posting was at Tumkur. Later on, after retirement from service, he got re-employment at the Indian Institute of Science as Head of the Department of Inorganic and Physical Chemistry. He made an offer to Lakshmana Rao to join IISc., as a Research Assistant with assured future prospects. He had almost accepted the offer but fate willed otherwise. Due to the premature death of his father, the responsibility of running the family fell on his young shoulders and he had no other option left except to continue as Lecturer. Had he joined the Science Institute, his services would have been lost to the academic community.

Among the numerous publications to his credit, his memoirs published in 2005 under the title "Nenapina Alegalu" written in highly readable language, makes fascinating reading.

The fact that he lived up to the ripe old age of 96 shows what a disciplined life he led.

I pay my humble tribute to the departed soul.

Cheating complaint

Adivasi Trust clarifies

Mysuru, Jan.9- Prakruthi Adivasi Foundation Trust has clarified that the Trust has not taken any clothes from Keshavlal Textiles in Upparpet, Bengaluru, to give them to tribals in the name of social service.

Reacting to a report published in Star of Mysore on Dec.17, 2017, titled 'Cloth merchant alleges cheating by Adivasi Trust,' the President of the Trust M. Krishnaiah, Treasurer Shivaji and Director Y.K. Subramanya have stated that Ramlal Jain, the Proprietor of Keshavlal Textiles, has not sent any clothes to the Trust.

In a complaint with Bengaluru City Police Commissioner, Upparpet Police Station and Mysuru SP, Ramlal Jain has accused Trust President Y.K. Subramani and Secretary Bhyru, of cheating him to the tune of lakhs of rupees by taking away clothes and dresses under the pretext of Girijana welfare and social service.

Ramlal said that he had delivered hundreds of unsold sarees, pants, shorts and other clothing to the Trust having address at Yashodharapura in Hunsur taluk in October last year.

The complaint stated that one Jaggu, son of Rama, representing the Trust and residents of Mangaluru Maala near Hunsur, has taken 150 sarees, 75 pants and 150 shirts. However, the Trust authorities, in a press release, have clarified that Rama and Jaggu do not belong to the Trust and the Trust's name was misused. They have said that Ramlal neither visited Mangaluru Maala, nor Yashodharapura where the Trust office is located.

The Trust authorities have stated that they run various tribal welfare programmes and depend on donations. They have said that some persons have malafide intentions of defaming the Trust and its activities.

The Trust members have urged the Police to conduct proper investigation into the allegations levelled by Ramlal and arrest Jaggu for defaming the Trust. The Trust has now decided to file a defamation case against Ramlal of Keshavlal Textiles.

Addressing the meeting, senior BJP leader M.V. Ravishankar said that the 'Parivartana Yatra' will take place at Maharaja's College Grounds at 4 pm on Jan.25.

Appealing the party workers to ensure an attendance of at least 80,000 people for the rally, he said that the BJP has launched the State-wide Parivartana rally to unseat the corrupt Congress Government in the forthcoming polls.

Alleging that Hindu activists have become targets after the Congress Government came to power in 2013, he said that the serial killings of Hindu activists was a result of the Police Department's failure to bring the culprits to book.

Stating that BJP activists cannot forget the killing of RSS worker Kyatamaranahalli Raju, a couple of years ago, Ravishankar accused the State Government of failing to act against the perpetrators of 'Love Jihad,' in which Hindu girls have become the target of anti-National forces.

He further alleged that the Congress was holding its Sadhana Samavesha out of the tax payers' money and that the State Government had concealed the Union Government's contribution to various developmental projects of the State.

Former MUDA Chairman L. Nagendra, who also addressed the meeting, maintained that the Congress won the Chamaraja Constituency only because of certain mistakes of the BJP and the party workers must ensure that such mistakes do not recur in the forthcoming Assembly polls.

He also called for widespread campaign for sensitising the voters on the misrule of Congress Government.

City BJP President Dr. B.H. Manjunath, Corporators Nandeesh Preetham and Girish Prasad, leaders Mallappa Gowda, Jayaprakash Gowda, Sriram and others were present.

Princes in Politics? (Not Patiala)

Point of VIEW

T.J.S. George

Some of the rulers were sophisticates, some crude. Maharaja Jai Singh of Alwar felt insulted when the Rolls Royce company in London took him for a common Indian and made fun of him. He took revenge by using half a dozen Rolls Royce cars to transport his city's waste. The Wadiyars of Mysore faced financial problems after the abolition of privy purse, but popular regard for them continued.

There's something about royalty that excites the popular mind. Thailand's Bhumibol Adulyadej reigned from 1946 to 2016 to become the world's longest reigning monarch; he was so popular that when he died, Thais wept. Japan's ruling Emperor Akihito, the 125th in history's longest royal line (beginning from 660 BCE), has got permission from Parliament to abdicate by 2020 because, at 83, he says he is too old. Britain's Queen Elizabeth is 91 and there isn't a beep from Buckingham Palace about her being too old.

In Thailand and Japan, the monarchy is spectacularly apolitical. In Britain, too, the royals have no role in policy decisions. Yet, the British royal family could well become a tactical card in politics if a snap election is held as is likely. The Labour Party, according to current gossip, may take a stand against the heir apparent, Prince Charles, and propose that Charle's son William be declared the next in line.

That will of course be a break in convention in convention-loving Britain. But it will win considerable backing from the common man because Charles is widely disliked. Bhumibol's son Vajiralongkorn, the current King of Thailand, is also disliked. But that won't touch him. Thai Kings are seldom seen in public, their movements are unknown, there is no public reporting of their activities and there is a tradition of lese-majeste which makes any kind of irreverence against the monarch a punishable offence.

In the free-for-all system of British democracy, taking potshots at Charles is a parlour game. And he is a favourite target primarily because of his affair with the grand-motherly Camilla before and during his marriage with the beautiful and widely admired Princess Diana. After Diana's death (in a road accident that continues to raise scary interpretations), Charles married his mistress, giving his unpopularity a universal dimension.

Elizabeth's own air of detachment at the time of Princess Diana's funeral had attracted criticism. But she has managed to rise above controversies by her queenly demeanour and her sense of decorum. With the eccentric and embarrassingly undiplomatic Prince Philip as husband, it is no mean achievement for Queen Elizabeth to have retained the dignity of the British throne all these years. No one knows whether her own opinion is in favour of her son or grandson succeeding her. But the politicians would like to make it a topic of public debate, knowing that grandson William will influence voters while son Charles will drive them away.

How grand and unchallenged, by comparison, was the era of Royal Princes in India. There were 565 of them, the British massaging their ego in ways that ranged from graded gun salutes to titular classification into Rajas and Maharajas. Some of the rulers were sophisticates, some crude. Many were adorned by necklaces of gold, diamonds and pearls, some led ascetic lives. Maharaja Jai Singh of Alwar felt insulted when the Rolls Royce company in London took him for a common Indian and made fun of him. He took revenge by using half a dozen Rolls Royce cars to transport his city's waste. The Wadiyars of Mysore faced financial problems after the abolition of privy purse, but popular regard for them continued.

The wealthiest of them all was also the messiest. The Nizam of Hyderabad was considered the richest man in the world. But where all his money has gone remains a mystery. What is known is that a day before India's military action against Hyderabad in 1948 (following the Nizam's refusal to join India), one million pounds were transferred to a British bank. That money is claimed by India, Pakistan and the Nizam's heirs — which means the British can go on profiting from the money.

But, of course, no one was more glamorous, more legendary than the Maharaja of Patiala, Bhupinder Singh GCSI, GCIE, GCVO, GBE. He got Cartier of Paris to turn a trunkful of diamonds and other precious gems into a necklace, the Patiala Necklace, costing $ 25 million in those days. (The Patiala Peg is a measure of largeness by which bars across India honour the Maharaja). A 1400-piece dinner set made of gold and silver, 40 plus Rolls Royces, 88 children from five formal wives, a personal harem of 350 women, a whole chicken at formal dinners followed by two whole chickens after the guests had left, Bhupinder Singh finally died of boredom.

Decadent days? Sure. But preferable to the days when people are lynched to death in public and the killers are hailed as patriots.

TIGER CENSUS DAY-2

Biting cold, breeze fail to deter volunteers, officers

Doctors, IAS Officers, Software Engineers, Businessmen taking part in big cat count

Volunteers and Forest Department officials examining pug marks at Bandipur Tiger Reserve.

Mysuru / Gundlupet / Hunsur, Jan. 9 (SOMG&BCT) - The ongoing Tiger Census at Bandipur Tiger Reserve and Nagarahole National Parks entered the second day this morning and according to Forest Department officials, the census has picked up pace.

At the Bandipur Tiger Reserve, census was in progress at all the 12 zones including the core areas. Over 60 volunteers and 250 personnel from the Forest Department are taking part in the census. In Nagarahole, over 30 volunteers along with Forest Department officials are counting the big cats.

Officials said that in Nagarahole, volunteers included three doctors from All India Institute of Speech and Hearing in Mysuru, one surgeon from Bengaluru, IAS officers, three Software Engineers, businessmen and students. A written bond has been secured from each volunteer as the risk is high inside the jungles.

Three forest officials are accompanying each volunteer and they are covering five kilometres of forest area in a day. This year's census data is digitised with the help of an Android mobile application that eliminates manual process of recording, which is slow and prone to errors.

The Wildlife Institute of India (WII) has developed the app, called the Monitoring System for Tiger-Intensive Protection and Ecological Status or M-STrIPES.

The volunteers take the photos of pug marks and scat and other details with GPS coordinates on the app and the data is stored in the backup file of the phone. At the end of the day, the data is uploaded and sent to the Nodal Officer, who in turn will upload it to National Tiger Conservation Authority (NTCA).

Officials said that there were more sightings near water holes and apart from tigers, other animals were also spotted. There are over 111 beats inside the Bandipur Tiger Reserve and the tiger counting is under progress without any glitches.

Yesterday, the major sightings included one leopard at Kundkere beat of Kundkere range, four wild dogs at Marigudi beat of Maddur range, one leopard at Hoskote beat of Maleyur range, elephants at Bolegowdanakatte beat of Omkar range, 10 wild dogs at Doddadalli beat of Maleyur range, elephant herds at Gundre Range, Bolgudda, Melukamanahalli and Karadikalbetta beats of Gopalaswamy Hill Range, Basaveshwara Gudi, Aiyyappanapala, Jakkali, Byrgadde, Chikka Muttige and Albare Beat of N. Beguru range, eight wild dogs at Mavinahalla beat and two at Kandibetta north beat of Gundre range.

Biting cold inside the forests have failed to have a benumbing effect on the volunteers and forest staffers as they are ready for the big cat count every day by 5.30 am. As soon as the officials give a green signal for the day's work, volunteers and Department personnel hit the trail, take readings as part of the carnivore and mega herbivore sign survey.

Certified volunteers from the Karnataka Eco-tourism Board are also part of the census. The Department has roped in 45 trainee Range Forest Officers (RFOs) for the census.

Students from the Forestry College, Ponnampet, Kodagu district, are also participating in the mega exercise.

Volunteers and staff will stay in the Forest Range offices and in Anti-Poaching Camps till the survey ends. Food is provided by the Department and volunteers have been directed to follow the instructions of the Department.

Indian Tax Savers' Plea To Govt.

The demagogic speeches of politicians, often delivered loudly and with great flourish, may hold the captive crowd spell-bound but are the voters convinced of the politician's promises and the truth in his tirade against his rival? In India, as I know, the poor, gullible voters are convinced of the promises, believe the vituperative tirade and vote such a politician to power. And then they remain in this democratic trap for five years!

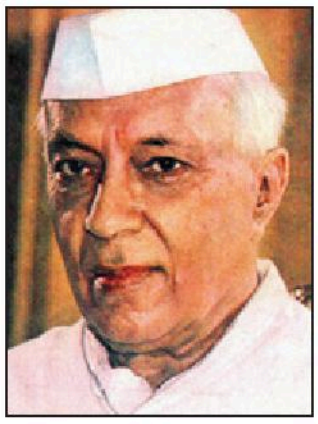
Before and after Independence, we have seen and experienced this universal phenomenon of democracy in India and also all over the world. That is the unique feature of democracy and that is what makes it vulnerable to fall into the hands of unscrupulous politicians, who may even destroy democracy.

I have seen this from the days of Nehru to the present days of Narendra Modi. What happened to Nehru's 'Tryst with destiny' and 'Redeeming of the pledge' in a midnight speech on the night of Independence made with great rhetoric and admired by the whole world? "Power tends to corrupt, and absolute power corrupts absolutely," said a political pundit, John Acton. After the first five years in Office, Nehru's government became susceptible to all the ills that any government with such popular support suffers from — effete administration, racial and religious discrimination in pursuit of strengthening the vote-bank and corruption.

Considered by his countrymen as a most learned and noble leader, who once famously said that any corrupt person must be hung by the nearest lamp-post, Nehru was seen condoning corruption of his colleagues in the government like Partap Singh Kairon, Chief Minister of Punjab and V.K. Krishna Menon, Defence Minister, for example. Just as beauty of a woman, even Cleopatra was not spared, fades with age, the power of a politician too gets enfeebled with years in power.

And then, where does that "boast of heraldry, the pomp of power" end? For Nehru, it ended with 1962 China War. For Indira Gandhi, with the Emergency she imposed on our country and later with the Operation Blue Star. Likewise with all the successive Prime Ministers after her, with one exception I would make for P.V. Narasimha Rao.

Narendra Modi



Jawaharlal Nehru

Indira Gandhi

We pay tax so that the Government provides us with infrastructure needed for leading a comfortable and quality life. These infrastructures are, for example, uninterrupted quality power supply, water supply, good roads, security of life and property, quality health and education service.

In a senseless pursuit of power, our country which was divided on the basis of Hindu and Muslim religion, was kept that way even after Independence with a perceptible hiatus between Indian Hindus and Indian Muslims to the point some sections of Hindus began suspecting those in power, read Congress, of building a Muslim vote-bank through Muslim appeasement instead of giving a quietus to the mutual suspicion between Hindus and Muslims by bringing Muslims to the mainstream of society in the true spirit of secularism.

Unfortunately, the Congress thought calling Hindu political leaders, other than those in the Congress Party, as Communal is Secularism. So the Congress succeeded in dividing the country once again as Secularists and Communalists. Hindus in Congress, Muslims and other minorities and leftists, who supported Congress became Secularists and all Hindus who supported and are sympathetic to Hindu unity under BJP, RSS or other organisations became Communalists.

See where we have come to at present after 70 years of Independence and democracy — a state of equality before law for all citizens irrespective of race, caste or religion under Narendra Modi. This is the true meaning of secularism, not pampering one religion against another.

But sadly, old habits die hard for old political parties. They will see intolerance where there is none. They will see Communalism where there is none. Come elections, they will visit temples to get Hindu votes but will divide the Hindu society taking advantage of the pernicious caste system prevailing in it.

Thus, the dance of democracy goes on in our country and let us celebrate our democracy despite the erratic behaviour of our politicians. We are lucky that despite many acrimonious political battles and corruption, politicians of all shades respect and in fact love Secularism and democracy, though not Socialism. I want the word "socialistic" removed from the Constitution and replaced with the word "welfare" which has a human spirit in it while the word "socialistic" is too materialistic and even discriminatory among people who produce the wealth of a nation and those who merely consume it.

Now, be that as it may, the reason for these rambling thoughts is a WhatsApp message forwarded to me a few days back about paying tax to our government. The title of the message is, "Why do Indians resist paying tax?"

A good question I thought and read it from the beginning to the end. It was a question posed to our Prime Minster Narendra Modi, who had promised to deposit Rs. 15 lakh in every Indian citizen's account (illegal immigrants excluded, I hope) after getting lakhs of crores of rupees stacked away in foreign banks by our corrupt politicians and rich people. Of course, we are all waiting for that "socialistic" windfall like the Biblical manna from heaven. But let us wait. Now the WhatsApp letter:

Dear Modiji,

This is what we honest citizens feel about our Governments — Central and State. On behalf of professionals and businessmen, I am sending you some facts. Please try to understand.

We are not doing Tax "Chori"... this is tax saving (a bit of evading too). This is to ensure security of our family, kids and their future for any adversity.

1. We bought Generators/Inverters in our houses, because Govt. failed to provide constant electricity.*

2. We installed submersible pumps, because Govt. failed to provide water.*

3. We hired own security guards, because Govt. failed to provide security.*

4. We send our kids to private schools, because Govt. failed to provide good education in public schools.*

5. We headed for private hospitals to avail proper care and treatment, because Govt. failed to provide good public hospitals.*

6. We bought cars because Govt. failed to provide good transportation.*

Finally..., what the tax-payer gets in return at the retirement, when he needs most to survive? Nothing, no social security.

But instead all his hard-earned income resource is used by Government to distribute subsidies and freebies in the name of welfare schemes among masses to buy "free votes" to those who don't pay any taxes.

Above all, what does the Government do with our (tax) money?

Open Courts, which do not give judgement.

Open Police Stations, which work for politicians only and not protect citizens.

Open Hospitals, which do not treat us well.

Build roads wherein 40-100% of money spent goes in vain due to corruption. Endless list...

Like western democracies, if Indian Governments could provide all the above, why would anyone save taxes ?

We all know that the major tax revenues collected from us are consumed by Government officials and politicians (billions of dollars are lying in foreign banks).

A manufacturer works at a margin of between 2% and 10% whereas government needs 30% of his income to cover its expenditure. How fair is it all? That's the reason no one wants to pay taxes.

We save taxes for our necessities, family, for our old age, for our safety, security and this phenomenon is the sign of failure of Government in discharging its own functions fairly and efficiently. Government alone is responsible for this.

But on the other hand what do we do?

If and when Govt. announces that Rs.1,000 crore is required for Indian Army or floods or earthquake victims, the same amount will be deposited within couple of days by these "Tax-Savers" only. We will come forward with open hearts.

My dear friends, if you agree with this opinion, please forward this until the Government realises its responsibilities.

Jai Hind

Kodagu District needs additional three Taluks

By Addanda C. Cariappa

This is the story of Kodagu and its original inhabitants in Kodagu who are facing the threat of losing their unique identity. The story also explains the actions of the powerful people who are the cause for it.

Outwardly, Kodagu appears to be a beautiful, splendid place full of natural richness. But its inner pain may in all probability lead to the disappearance of the district.

In the past, Kodagu was a country, having its own rulers; cultural identity and a population that was distinct from others. Kodagu is a land of warriors, having a rich tradition of bravery and patriotism. Over the centuries, the Gangas, Cholas, Chalukyas, Vijayanagar rulers, Ikkeri Kings, Hyder Ali, Tipu Sultan and the British gained control over Kodagu resulting in loot of wealth and religious conversions.

But despite numerous onslaughts, the Kodava culture and the language survived without undergoing any changes. Kodagu is our land. The people of Kodagu, which is the birth place of River Cauvery, continued the age-old tradition of worshipping the Holy River.

It can be said that the British were the first to give a good governance to Kodagu by establishing schools and colleges, apart from cultivating coffee and thus consolidating Kodagu's economy. Also, the British were the first to ban cow slaughter and allowed Kodavas and some others to carry guns without Government licence. The British, acknowledging the bravery of Kodavas, even set up 'Coorg Regiment' in the Indian Army.

After India got Independence, Kodagu was declared a 'C' State as per the States Reorganisation Act, 1951 and subsequently a 24-Member Assembly was constituted based on the naadus. The election to the first Assembly was held in 1952 and subsequently C.M. Poonacha became the Chief Minister of Kodagu on 17.3.1952. K. Mallappa became the Home Minister while B.S. Kushalappa was elected as the Assembly Speaker. Many elderly Kodagu people recall that this was the golden era for Kodagu.

But its existence was short-lived as four years later Kodagu was merged with the much bigger State of Mysore on Nov.1, 1956.

As years passed by, the constituency delimitation process began. The three Taluks that the District had, came down to two with the discontinuance of Somwarpet Constituency. Following delimitation, Kodagu became a part of Mysore Lok Sabha Constituency.

What a pitiful situation for Kodagu !

When Mysore State was renamed as Karnataka, political pressure groups emerged in different parts of the State that forced the Government to form new Taluks, following which Vasudeva Commission was constituted in 1973, T.M. Hundekar Committee in 1984, P.C. Gaddigoudar Committee in 1986 and M.B. Prakash Committee in 2007 to look into carving of new Taluks. Finally, the present Congress Government came forward to set up 49 new Taluks and interestingly, Kodagu got none.

Even as the new Taluk formation process was yet to begin, the people of Kodagu had demanded three new Taluks for the district — Ponnampet, Kushalnagar (Cauvery) and Napoklu. But the demand was rejected by the last of the Committees — M.B. Prakash Committee — for petty reasons. The main reasons cited by the Committee for rejecting the demand for three more Taluks was that these towns were very close to the existing Taluk Headquarters and also had less population. Besides, these towns had many Government Offices much like the Taluk centres and the forest area around these towns was vast.

But the fact remains that the Government had no yardstick in announcing the new Taluks. The list of new Taluks announced by the Government a few months ago shows that some of the new Taluks have a population of less than 10,000. Also, the new Taluks are in a distance of less than 25 kms from each other. Besides, some of the Taluks do not find mention in the recommendation by any of the Committees mentioned earlier in this article.

The Government, while denying a new Taluk to Kodagu, has cited sparse population and huge forest area. But the demand for new Taluks made by some influential Ministers has been met and the new Taluks were announced by the Government as an election 'gift.'

Now in Kodagu, Ponnampet had a population of 1,01,388 and is more than 40 kms away from the Taluk Headquarters of Virajpet. Ponnampet has an area of 1,065 sq.kms having control over 21 Gram Panchayats (GPs).

The population of rest of Virajpet Taluk exceeds 1 lakh. Virajpet Taluk has an area of 621.55 sq. kms having control over 16 GPs.

Kushalnagar has a population of 1,11,882 and is more than 30 kms from the Taluk Headquarters of Somwarpet. Kushalnagar covers an area of 467.31 sq.kms and has control over 20 Gram Panchayats while the rest of Somwarpet Taluk has an area of 527.61 sq.kms, covering 22 GPs.

Napoklu has a population of 51,506 and is more than 30 kms from its Taluk and District Headquarters of Madikeri. All these centres have extensive forest areas.

Although these towns are covered by forests, the population is not less as claimed by the Committee. Kodagu is a land of Hill ranges and measuring the distance in terms of kilometres seems to be unscientific. Despite Kodagu having all the criteria to have more Taluks, the District is being denied justice. It may be noted here that the people of Kodagu are only asking for the Taluks that were once in place and not new ones. It is very disappointing to note that Kodagu has been neglected even as the Siddharamaiah Government announced the formation of 49 new Taluks, with no specific yardsticks.

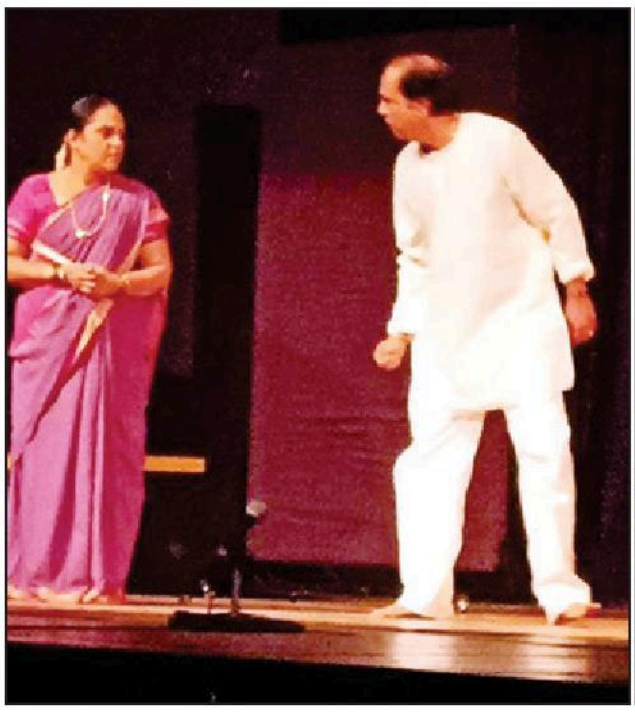
'Bhimannana Maga' - An insight into the life of the artiste



By Dr. Padmavathi Narasimhan

The Indian Theatre staged the play 'Bheemannana Maga' at Kalamandira in city on Dec.27. The play is based on Raghavendra Bhimsen Joshi's 'Gaanaaraachye pora Atmakathana' translated into Kannada from Marathi by Shubhada Aminabhavi. The play is an autobiography of Raghavendra Joshi, son of Bhimsen Joshi and also a biography of the music legend Bhimsen Joshi.

Raghavendra Joshi is the eldest son of Sunanda Katti, the first wife of Bhimsen Joshi. He is gifted with the talent of identifying water disposition. This passion led him to giving up his job and his wife supported him whole heartedly.

The play is a faithful reflection of his book. Being a witness of the various incidents occurred in his father's life, Raghavendra (Dhananjay) shares the story, narrating the strong bond between his father and himself. The play opens with 'Bhimsen Joshi's popular Dasara Pada 'Enna Paliso Karunakara,' with the appearance of all the actors and actresses on stage.

The story begins with the screaming of Sunanda's wail calling out to her six-year-old son Raghavendra 'Alas! He has strangled my neck!'. Bhimanna (That is how Raghavendra calls his father) is trapped by another woman whose name is only referred to as 'she' or 'her' by the author (narrator). Bhima has used his wife's gold chain to make a 'mangal sutra' for the other woman.

Bhimanna took to music at the age of eleven. Furious at his poor performance at school, the father beats him. And the mother curses her own fate. But Bhimanna's determination is steadfast. 'You will see how I will mint money with my music!', is his reply.

As a grown up, Bhimanna is attracted to Sunanda, privately gifts her with creams and talcum powder and appeals to her, 'Will you marry me? Please do not say no! (Olle annabyada).' He marries Sunanda (Shylaja) lovingly called Nandi by him and begets three children. The family is happy till the entry of Vatsala Mudholkar (Vinaya Janardhan) in Bhima's life. Taken by her beauty, Bhima plunges into an irreparable decision of leading his life with her. Like Uttanapada Bhimanna begins to treat Sunanda and his legitimate sons with scant respect, which gets unbearable to the kids. But Sunanda continues to love her husband. Bhimanna is once down with Typhoid. Sunanda takes care of him lovingly and Bhima recovers his lost voice.

But Sunanda's goodness leads her to become a housemaid in her own house. She is deprived of family protection and financial security. Bhimanna earns name and fame, but pleads innocence with regard to the injustice done to his family as he is too scared of his mistress. Raghu, however, has no complaints against his father, as he attributes everything to the other woman — the mistress. Bhima is all repentant after a few years of suffering. He cries on his father's shoulder, relating his misery. But the father's words are firm — 'It is YOUR doing. You need to help yourself.' Bhimanna is sick towards the end of his life. Raghu is constantly in touch with him and visits him at his hospital regularly. He sobs bitterly on hearing the demise of his father.

Little joys — when a radio is brought to the house, when Raghu is gifted with a bicycle from his father and Bhimanna dancing to the tunes of Alabela form the joyous moments in the life of Raghu and humour part in the play.

The sweet texture of the local dialect is maintained throughout the play. The voice of Nitin Rajaram Shastri, violin background by C.N. Tyagarajan suiting the moods of the play, flowing melody of flute by Sameeer Rao (who has also music-directed the play) and suitable harmonium saath by Sri Ram Bhat throughout the play was apt and soothing. Director H.S. Umesh has given a vigorous training of six months to all the actors, which was reflected in the play. Harish in the role of Bhimsen Joshi did good justice to the role. Even the lip movement in the singing part was astonishingly synchronising, considering which a couple more songs could be added to the play. Dhananjay managed both the roles of the son and the narrator beautifully. The costumes were simple and simple techniques with the usage of minimum tools like chairs to show a driven car were highly appreciative.

HDK calls upon industrialists to set up Co-operative Bank

State JD(S) President H.D. Kumaraswamy speaking at an interaction session organised by Mysore Chamber of Commerce and Industry (MCCI), at Jnanasarovara International Residential School auditorium in city yesterday as FKCCI Vice-President Sudhakar S.Shetty, MCCI President A.S. Satish and others look on.

> Only if small industries survive can the educated youth who are deprived of jobs get them. I have understood the problems of the industrialists. Without any experience and because of the political changes, I became a Chief Minister and ran the people-friendly administration for 20 months. Now, I have gained ten years experience in the field. I have understood the problems of all classes and communities and the aspirations of the people. Your problems could be easily solved only if JD(S) independently comes to power and implement all the programmes.
> —H.D. Kumaraswamy

Mysuru, Jan.9 (SBD&NNN)- State JD(S) President H.D. Kumaraswamy (HDK) suggested to the industrialists to set up a Co-operative Bank for themselves instead of seeking loans from Nationalised Banks.

He was addressing a gathering of industrialists, businessmen and traders at an interaction session organised by Mysore Chamber of Commerce and Industry (MCCI), at Jnanasarovara International Residential School auditorium here yesterday. He said that industrialists take loans from Nationalised Banks and start the industries. Later, the buyers of products do not make the payment in the beginning and as a result, the burden of loans increase and slowly the industry will turn into an NPA (Non Performing Asset) and a stage will come when it has to be shut down.

Hence, if the industrialists join hands with the existing Industrial Bank and set up its own Cooperative Bank, it will be mutually beneficial. "If JD(S) Govt. comes to power, I will sanction Rs.500 crore fund," he assured.

24 hours power: Including power, then electricity could be supplied to other States too within six months. Along with power production, 24 hours supply would be given, he said.

Bengaluru there is load shedding in all parts of the State. Instead of concentrating on power production, emphasis is being given to purchase power. All Electricity Supply Companies including BESCOM are suffering losses. Except discussion about Solar policy and its advertisement, nothing much is happening on the ground. Promising farmers free electricity, the government is supplying just two hours power to them, said Kumaraswamy expressing his regret.

If his government comes to Federation of Karnataka Chamber of Commerce and Industry (FKCCI) Vice-President Sudhakar S.Shetty said that 0.5 per cent cess collected for APMC Calamity Fund should be reduced. There should be uniform tax rates for industries. The existing permits for industries and its renewal should be abolished and there should be uniform fees and online service started.

The other demands of FKCCI included setting up of Industrial Layouts in each taluk for small industries, setting aside Rs. 5000 crore loan for women entrepreneurs and Rs. 10,000 crore for new entrepreneurs. Only if such steps are taken can jobs be created and industry survive, he said.

In the interaction that followed, more than 29 suggestions came from the hoteliers, industrialists, educationalists and from other sectors.

Karnataka Small and Micro Industries Association President Hanumanthegowda, MCCI President A.S. Satish, Legislators S.R. Mahesh, G.T. Devegowda, former Minister A.H. Vishwanath, former VC of University of Mysore Prof. K.S. Rangappa, Mayor M.J. Ravikumar, former Mayor R. Lingappa and others were present.

Intellectuals, students moot ideas for good governance at conclave

Mysuru, Jan. 9 (RKB&NNN)- The thoughts flowed, suggestions given and the interaction allowed even students to express their ideas at the 'Intellectual Conclave,' organised by the JD(S) at Kalamandira here yesterday.

Hongesh Gowda, an engineering graduate, sounded apprehensive over the future of the unemployed youth in the wake of the State Government's plan to increase the retirement age of its employees from 60 to 62 years. The youth who were already in waiting, have to stare at uncertainty with this new plan, he said.

Former Vice-Chancellor of Rajiv Gandhi University of Health Sciences Dr. S. Chandrashekar Shetty wondered if any development had occurred in the last 70 years since independence. If it has occurred, it must mean all round development but in what direction have we progressed, why is it we are still lagging behind is something all of us need to introspect.

Former Vice-Chancellor of University of Agriculture Sciences Dr. M. Mahadevappa said that in this era of Science and Technology, the farmers were the ones who have been deceived. Both the farmers and our country are ranked below in agriculture. We should focus on Science and Technology and stop subsidises. There is nothing in the syllabus about agriculture and hence this should change. Swaminathan Commission Report must be implemented at the earliest, he suggested.

He also expressed displeasure regarding appointment of Vice-Chancellors. Why was this situation not there before 2000? Are the MLC seats going to deserving people? were the questions he posed.

Former Vice-Chancellor of University of Mysore Prof. S.N. Hegde who chaired the meeting said that when V.P. Singh was the Prime Minister, eminent Scientists like Prof. G.K. Menon and Dr. Raja Ramanna were the Ministers in the government. However, the scientists now-a-days have been completely sidelined and even looked down upon. The old universities are lying in a state of neglect. The people should decide in which place, what university should be located, he added.

Former Minister A.H. Vishwanath said that there should be a bridge between primary, secondary and higher education. We are at a loss to explain where we stand. Elections must be held in University colleges because students will understand the value of votes, democracy and its importance.

Former VCs Prof. P. Venkatarmaiah, Prof. O. Anantharamaiah, Prof. N.S. Ramegowda, MLA G.T. Devegowda, Prasaranga former Director Prof. C. Naganna, Prof. Govindaiah, Dr. N. Ramesh, R. Vasudevamurthy of Mahajana Educational Institution, Pharmacist Association Secretary Prof. D. Rajendra, retired DDPI Sharadamma and others were present.

Madikeri, Jan.9 (PR&US)- "The requisition for granting taluk status to Ponnampet and Kushalnagar has come recently which will be examined," said Chief Minister Siddharamaiah.

He was addressing the Congress Government's 'Sadhana Samavesha' at Crystal Court Hall in Madikeri this morning.

Referring to BJP National President Amit Shah's recent visit to Bengaluru, Siddharamaiah said that it was just to interact with BJP leaders and affirmed that it would have no effect on Congress. He expressed confidence that his party would emerge victorious in the forthcoming Assembly polls. He ruled out alliance with any party either before or after polls.

Earlier to the event when reporters referred the news item in papers that Congress was keen to take M.C. Nanaiah to their fold, the CM remained silent but mentioned that he would meet Nanaiah in Madikeri.

The CM was received by DC Sreevidya and SP P. Rajendraprasad at the helipad.

The Police said that roadside vendors were convincing customers that they were selling ISI standard helmets. "A branded helmet manufacturer with ISI standard does not use stickers or labels. Roadside vendors are simply sticking an ISI label on the helmets. Motorists can claim compensation at consumer forums if they are injured while wearing ISI branded helmets during accidents," he said.

City Police Commissioner Dr. A. Subrahmanyeswara Rao said that Police had not seized the sub-standard helmets. "We have only taken them into our safe custody. The names and phone numbers of helmet owners have been taken and they will be returned," he said. However, only negligible number of sub-standard helmets had been returned so far, Police officers admitted. The owners of helmets need to produce a BIS-standard helmet before taking the sub-standard helmets back.

ISI-marked Helmets Vs Non-standard Helmets

- All ISI-marked helmets are not of standard quality
- ISI mark can easily be removed if it is screen-printed in an inferior helmet
- Good helmets are rigid and light-weighted
- The padding inside is comfortable and cushiony
- Retention system is with chain strap and a standard visor
- Non-ISI helmets have low-quality shells and simple padding with a layer
- ISI helmets do not have stickers or labels
- Roadside vendors simply stick an ISI label on the helmets

MCC INFORMED ABOUT RAIDS

Speaking to SOM, DCP (Crime and Traffic) Dr. Vikram V. Amathe said that the Police from various traffic divisions are themselves raiding places where inferior quality helmets are sold. "We had written to the MCC a week back to crackdown on the sale of helmets as carrying out raids comes under their jurisdiction. As there was no response from the MCC and considering the safety of people, we ourselves are raiding places and seizing non-standard helmets though we don't have the powers to do so," he said.

Police said that majority of raids are being conducted on the Ring Road, Hunsur Road, Nanjangud Road and Metagalli.

"Yesterday alone, the KR Police seized 70 helmets, 150 helmets at N.R. Police and over 60 non-standard helmets have been seized within V.V. Puram Traffic limits. On an average we are seizing 200 to 300 such helmets per day and we will continue the raids till Jan. 31," Dr. Amathe said.

WORD OF THE DAY

Juggernaut

Pronunciation: Juhg-er-nawt, -not

Meaning: A juggernaut (Sound North-American pronunciation), in current English usage, is a literal or metaphorical force regarded as mercilessly destructive and unstoppable. Its British English meaning of a large heavy truck or an articulated lorry dates from the second half of the twentieth century.

Origin: This usage originated in the mid-nineteenth century as an allegorical reference to the Hindu Ratha Yatra temple car, which apocryphally was reputed to crush devotees under its wheels. The word is derived from the Sanskrit Jagannātha (Devanagari) "world-lord", one of the names of Krishna found in the Sanskrit epics. The English loanword juggernaut in the sense of "a huge wagon bearing an image of a Hindu god" is from the 17th century, inspired by the Jagannath Temple in Puri, Odisha, which has the Ratha Yatra ("chariot procession"), an annual procession of chariots carrying the murtis (statues) of Jagannâth, Subhadra and Balabhadra (Krishna's elder brother).

THE ODD WORD

Bibliopole

A person who buys and sells books, especially rare ones.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

At one fell swoop

Meaning: Suddenly; in a single action.

Origin: This is one of those phrases that we may have picked up early in our learning of the language and probably worked out its meaning from the context in which we heard it, without any clear understanding of what each word meant. That lack of understanding of the words in the phrase is undoubtedly the reason that this is often misspelled.

Shakespeare either coined the phrase, or gave it circulation, in Macbeth, 1605:

At one fell swoopMACDUFF: [on hearing that his family and servants have all been killed
All my pretty ones?
Did you say all? O hell-kite! All?
What, all my pretty chickens and their dam
At one fell swoop?
